

INTRODUCTION: 60669 is a dark gray, coherent, glassy impact melt (Fig. 1). It is angular and highly vesicular. A few small (<1 mm) white clasts are scattered through the rock. It is a rake sample collected about 70 m west southwest of the Lunar Module and lacks zap pits.

FIGURE 1. Small scale divisions in mm.